New York, May 13.—During the hours of business to-day when the wheat markets were open, that is to say, between half past 10 and a quarter before 2 o'clock in the afternoon, transactions in the stock market were of extremely desultory character. In the first half hour of dealings in securities the market was, as a whole, firm, under the leadership of a sharp upward movement in the Union Pacific common shares, this being based partially upon the very open manipulation for an advance, presumably conducted in the interest of those having at heart the success of the company's new bond issue and partially upon the current popular judgment that while the necessity placed upon the company of raising money for the purposes described is one that ought not to have been forced upon it yet, the terms of the proposed bond sale were such as to make the plan entirely feasible from a financial New York, May 13.—During the hours Canadian Pacific...... 2,100 174% 1734, 174% 174%

This conclusion was fortunally that the acouncement late on Saturday that the Union Pacific Company had paid $1,500,000 of its $75,000,000 bend issue to a syndicate as the price of a guarantee of the flotation of the bends, the managers of the syndicate also getting an additional commission of $325,000 for their services. This meant, of course, that a large subscription to the bonds was probable from the members of the syndicate themselves. Irrespective of the amounts of the bonds unsubscribed for by the stockholders, that they might be asked to take up.

Must Borrow More Soon.

The fact was put in very clear light that the whole financing plan had been so closely calculated to the company's immediate and pressing requirements immediate and pressing requirements that the net cash surplus remaining Co., members New York Stock Exchange, G. It also left it manifest that although the Union Pacific Company would undoubtedly get the money required, it would, if the new bonds should be converted into common stock or be retired, pay an extremely high rate of interest for its accommodation. But with this view of the case, Wall street did not very greatly concern itself. The stock market during the early part of the stock exchange session, although generally firm, as described, was heavy in certain quarters. During the remaining portion of the day, up to the last three-quarters of an hour of business, speculative interest was confined almost exclusively to the sensational developments on the produce exchanges.

Treasury notes of 1890 when a reaction occurred, but the final price of each of the principal options was still at a net advance of over 4 cents a bushel for the day. There was very little doubt that the large operators who started the present speculation in wheat several weeks ago, took profits to-day in large amounts on their ventures, and the rise of over 10 cents a bushel in the price of the over 10 cents a bushel in the price of the commodity in little more than a week's time, and of 22 cents a bushel from the time when the advance started, would seem to have discounted a good deal of the crop damage, present and prospective.

Condition Is Serious, It is conceded, however, that a seriou situation confronts the grain trade. Reduced harvests are indicated at the moment in nearly all the world's great proment in nearly all the world's great producing sections, and in conservative quarters in the trade it does not seem to be thought likely that so far as our own country is concerned the shortage estimated in wheat as the result of the back-marked producing the season thus far can be made good during the rest of the year.

COTTON MARKET.

Quotations furnished by Dick Bros. & Co., members of the New York and New Orleans cotion exchanges, 142 H street northwest.

New York May 13.—In spite of lower cables and favorable weather conditions the cotton market displayed a good undertone and after opening at a decline of 8 to 13 points, moved gradually upward. The chief strength was in July, which reached 19.81, a new record, by midafternoon. The advance was helped by a forceast for unsettled weather in the Southwest, where clear weather had been expected for several days. The usual flood of bad crop news was received. The hearing of the suit by Theodore Price against the cotton exchange was begun before a referce, but furnished no news of importance. Weather conditions are becoming more settled, especially in the Western belt.
